About the State

The Rev. Lester F. Reynolds of East Norwalk, Conn., who recently received a call to the pastorate of the Advent Christian church in Rutland, declined the call. The church at East Norwalk was unwilling to give up the Rev. Mr. Reynolds.

The real estate and the permanent fixtures saved from the recent fire at the hotel Burlington at Burlington were sold at auction Saturday afternoon to S. H. Miller of the Green Mountain Junk Co., for the sum of $17,000. There was a large attendance, but few bidders, at hand a vivid memory of the occurrence.

land of Walter Howard is the site of another house burned by the Indians, and all these places ought to be plainly marked for the benefit of future generations. Further information has been received from W. W. Banister, to the effect that the camping spot is one mile south of East Randolph village and that he can go to the very place, and also where Captain House of the parenting party camped the same night. Mr. Banister had the site pointed out to him in 1871 by one of the captives, who was a boy of eight when he was taken and had a vivid memory of the occurrence.

The log drive of the Connecticut Valley Lumber company was started over the dam at Bellows Falls last week Tuesday evening, and it is estimated that in the first 24 hours over 4,000,000 feet passed through the falls. The drive is 55,000,000 feet. It is expected that all will pass during the next few days and that there will be no inconvenience to the mills from lack of water, as in previous years.

Trammen and conductors on the Rutland railroad are to receive an increase in pay, according to a statement made by one of the interested parties. For several weeks conference between the officials and employees have been held without apparent result. The men have asked for an advance similar to that some time ago granted the engineers and men, but how great concessions have been made is not known.

In a lilly pasture in the northwest part of South Hero is an old family cemetery where lie the bodies of some of the early settlers in that section. But two of the old headstones now bear English inscriptions. They mark the resting places of William Campbell, who died in 1796, aged 71 years, and his wife, Sarah, who died in 1806 at the age of 77. The Campbell family many years ago left the islands and located in the West.

The Burlington board of school commissioners took after an extensive investigation, decided to enlarge the curriculum in the high school by the addition of courses in domestic science, manual training and commerce. In common with other of the leading secondary schools of the country, the school is taking on these courses for the advantage of the many who do not go to college, but step from the high school directly into active life.

Lyndon academy has received from Mrs. John B. Chase, wife of the editor of the Lyndonville Journal, who has been making an extended tour of Europe, a beautiful photograph of the "Porte des Matins," a part of the Eiffel tower or Louvre, or Temple of Art in Paris. This is considered the most architectural sculpture in the world, the rich entablature resting on the head of six female figures of Caryatids. The picture will be framed and hung in academic hall.

John White, representing the Clarkson store of Burlington, was served with process Monday in Enfield Falls for violating the law relating to itinerant vendors. A hearing was held, at which he was bound over in the sum of $100 for his appearance at the September term of Franklin county court. Bell was furnished. The Clarkson store sends out representatives every year with a line of coats, suits, etc., and at the sale had been previously advertised, the officers were ready for Mr. White as soon as the sale opened.

Walfred Larson of the Vermont Marine works at Rutland was injured in a peculiar manner Thursday. As he was about to leave the quarry, he stepped to speak to someone, and as they were talking he picked up what he thought to be a small stick and as it was covered with mud, tapped it against the wall of the quarry, when it exploded and was found to be dynamite. Larson's hand was badly lacerated, and he may lose his thumb and part of the index finger as the result of the explosion. The stick bore no resemblance to a stick of dynamite, and how long it had been lying there nobody knows.

A bronze tablet, containing the names of 20 Revolutionary soldiers, was buried in the old cemetery at Middlebury Springs, was unveiled at that place Monday. The tablet was presented by the local chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and the monument to which it was attached was for many years. For a number of years he was also interested in the management of oil wells and coal mines in Ohio. Later he managed the lime mills of Claremont, N. H., where he remained until 1878, when he returned to Bradford.

Mr. McDufee had always been a public spirited man and greatly interested in anything which he thought was for the interest of his town, state or country. He was one of the organizers of the Bradford Savings Bank and Trust company, secured its charter and was for a long time one of its directors. He was influential in establishing the Bradford Union and soon after became its principal owner. He was a trustee of Bradford Academy. He was a member of the Royal Republics and had two sons, George E. and Charles H. McDufee.

This continued deterioration of prospect is entirely in line with what has been reported in the New England Homestead since the opening of the period of spring growth. It is not the result of any condition experienced during the past thirty days, but is simply the natural trend of crop development in view of the general lack of vigor shown as the result of winter killing. Reports show that the crop is heading out generally very thin, and with a very markedly uneven development of straw.

Through portions of Illinois, Indiana and Missouri, this uneven condition of straw development is especially marked.

IN BOSTON MARKETS.

Lower Prices in View in Butter and Cheese—Eggs Scarce.

Boston, June 8.—No change has taken place in local butter quotations, but the market does not appear quite as strong as it did last week. Lower prices were made in New York Saturday, and although there was some recovery yesterday, the market is below last Friday's level. At Canton, N. Y., Saturday, butter dropped 4c, and at Elgin, Ill., Monday, the official quotation was 27c, as compared with 28c a week ago. These developments are taken to mean lower prices, and buyers who have been cautious for some time, are even more so, now that the trend of the market appears more in their favor. Meanwhile, the receipts keep up and there is rather more pressure to sell, some sellers being anxious to get out before prices go lower, as the indications now suggest. Lower prices also seem likely for cheese, which is 12½@14c per pound lower in the country. Local stocks are large and the demand has been light for some time. Fancy, fresh-laid eggs continue scarce and firm, but ordinary goods are abundant and easy.

Jobbing quotations:
